have been expertise and a genuine interest in our products and the people who use them. We are true to our brand culture by collaborating with leading institutes on the scientific development of our products. This has allowed us to come up with a collection that is unparalleled in its breadth and depth. To understand more about seating, you need to have studied it in detail. A world away from company-related network and globalisation concerns: Interstuhl is and will remain a company that can be described in this way. Over 500 employees make artisan German goods and they only do so in Germany.

Interstuhl

The ideas of a Swabian businessman and developer are going on an international journey. Our passion is attractive and healthy seating, whether we use it to work, think, discuss, argue or relax.

Our passion is a chair that actively supports us.

Interstuhl innovations are created, tested and developed using an interesting mix of a melting pot of ideas and expert laboratories. That is what makes us so special. Simply stated by Werner Link, the company's owner and Managing Director: "We understand more about seating". An honest statement that has its origins back in the textile factory in 1961. Our priorities

Whoever understands more about seating creates the perfect place for anyone

Ataros-2 is the top seat in its price range. The first Ataros has now given birth to the technological innovation, refinement and slimmed down lines that are the second generation: Ataros-2. This range sees the idea of seating as a business concept extended to meet the requirements of a great deal of different working environments; the fact that one million units of this very popular model have been sold and many spines have benefited as a result proves how it is top of its game in this price range. Only the Ataros-2 offers this unique level of comfort. Sit more comfortably, whether you're working in the New or the Old Economy; greatness can only be achieved by giving that little bit extra.

Setting: Back offices, shared flats, departments, management areas: the Ataros-2 can be individually tailored to fit any environment.

Clever design: There is an Ataros-2 that is right for you, no matter what type of seated work you do; with maximum features and a customised design for desk workers.

Ergonomics: The range is characterised by its long, adjustable backrest that can be ergonomically adapted to any user, as can the height of the seat.

A privilege for anyone

1 Synchronous mechanism

The synchronous movement of the seat and backrest provides optimum support for the back in every position; the push effect is eliminated.

2 Sprung column

This ensures that the spine, which is very sensitive to vertical jolts, is not subjected to excessive loads when sitting down, even at the lowest seat height.

3 Weight adjustment

The individually adjustable counter-pressure of the backrest permits correct sitting for both light and heavy users.

4 Backrest height adjustment

The support range for the lumbar spine can be ideally adjusted to the height of the user.

5 Base seat height adjustment

The seat height is a precondition for good sitting. The base seat height adjustment extends the DIN-defined adjustment range and allows ideal sitting for short or tall users.

6 Seat inclination adjustment

Multiple adjustment of the seat in a forwards direction stops the pelvis from tilting back. This relieves the spine and avoids a poor posture.

7 Seat depth adjustment

Regulates the distance between the backrest and front edge of the seat, thus providing optimum support for the upper thighs; even for taller users.

8 Adjustable lumbar support

The horizontally adjustable lumbar support adapts to the individual curve of the lumbar spine; this reduces muscle strain.

9 Adjustable 4D armrests

Height adjustment to take the strain off the neck muscles. Width adjustment and pivoting for optimum support angle, depth adjustment for optimum distance to the desk.

The best sitting position is the next one

In the world of the seating specialists an Intershihl chair helps? This silent therapeutic assistant can help you sit correctly. It gives you a sense of well-being and supports every position and you can really feel it relieving the strain on your back.

What we do: By daring to implement our philosophy of non-static sitting, we have completely blown away all the old "rules". Previously you were expected to sit rigidly with your back against the seat, whereas the new concept of sitting allows you to sit however you like whether it involves leaning, lolling around, looking out of the window or actually concentrating on your work!

"Sit however you like. But make sure you do it on the right chair." All our products are developed in conjunction with leading institutes to ensure that any claims we make are backed up by science.

The result: An Intershihl chair responds to any given situation ergonomically, ensuring that the chair takes the strain, not you!

It is often the case that the terminology surrounding new innovations becomes a hindrance rather than a help. High-flown language is frequently used and misused for promotional reasons and this can obscure information relating to actual, rather than pseudo innovations. This is why we are particularly pleased that customers can now not only experience the quality of our products; they can see it too: we are the first manufacturer to be granted the right to label our products with the official "Premium Product" seal, awarded by the IGA testing company and TÜV Rheinland Group certification body. In addition, we have now won yet another accolade, best "quality office". In effect, this means that every Interstuhl product provides an optimum sitting environment and that all owners of Interstuhl chairs can rest assured that they have chosen the best possible product. This then has an effect on other colleagues and the working day as a whole. And we are more than happy to put a 5-year guarantee for everyone's peace of mind. However, we must share the praise for our innovative seating solutions with the institutes that are always ready to support us in their development: we are sure that we will continue to work together in the future.
