

From the 5th till 8th March 2016 the Mextrópóli event took place. Mextrópóli is an architecture festival in Mexico City, where every year citizens and experts consider and discuss about the city in which they want to live. The 52 thousand visitors are mainly architects, students, artists, designers and tourists. Interstuhl LATAM, our Mexican subsidiary was also at that festival and presented our products TANGRAMis5 and SILVER.

Previously, Interstuhl LATAM was present in two events of Arquine: one was the release of the yearbook Mexican Architectures. The Best of XXI Century, and the other was JAMS 12, a round table that discussed office spaces and how they have evolved, besides talking about how an architect has to reach a good result and ensure employee productivity. In both events, Interstuhl had the possibility to show different presentations and some of our chairs, like the AirPad.

Arquine is a specialized magazine in architecture and Mexico City is one of the leading cities in architecture and design, and we are glad that Interstuhl was chosen as partner of these architect events.
